U.N. Asks Big Four Meeting

Urges Berlin Settlement

(Compiled From Wire Services)

PARIS — The two highest officials of the United Nations today called upon Russia and the western powers to settle the Berlin crisis in immediate four-power talks.

In an unprecedented joint letter UN Secretary-General Trygve Lie and Australia's H. V. Evatt, president of the General assembly, urged the four great powers to begin immediate conversations looking to settlement of the cold war over the German capital.

The two top UN officials sent their appeal to the delegates of the United States, Britain, France and Russia, and urged them to send it on directly to President Truman, Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee, Premier Henri Queuille and Premier Josef Stalin.

The Lie-Evatt note did not suggest at what level the talks should begin, whether through the foreign ministers of the four powers, or through the heads of state themselves.

ACT ON PALESTINE

It simply called upon them to undertake "immediate conversations" and "all other necessary steps" for solution of the Berlin crisis, and said that the two UN officials "stand ready to lend all further assistance such as the currency study now being made by the secretary general (Lie)."

It asked an early reply from the four powers.

A security council committee approved today a plan apparently intended to demilitarize virtually all of southern Palestine's Negev desert.

The United States, Britain, China, France, Belgium and Colombia supported the plan, submitted by the acting mediator, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche. Russia abstained.

The Negev desert, originally assigned to the Jews under the United Nations partition plan of a year ago, has been the scene recently of fighting which resulted in Israeli victories over the Egyptians. Count Folke Bernadotte, the assassinated mediator, recommended before his death that the Negev be given to Arab Palestine.

Dr. Philip C. Jessup of the United States was the first member of the seven-nation committee to express his approval of today's Bunche plan. Other committee members, except Jacob A. Malik of Russia, said it would provide an "equitable" solution of the tangled situation in the southern desert.

Court Fines GE Company

NEW YORK — (UP) — Fines totalling $56,000 were levied today on the General Electric company, two subsidiaries and three officials convicted of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust law and the Wilson Tariff act.

They were found guilty by Federal Judge John C. Knox of conspiring between 1928 and 1940 to monopolize trade here and abroad in hard metal compositions and products.

General Electric of Schenectady, N. Y., and the Carboloy company of Detroit, were fined $20,000 each, and International General Electric of Schenectady, $10,000.

Company officials fined were Walter M. Stearns of Schenectady, former manager of GE trade relations, and Zay Jeffries of Cleveland, board chairman of Carboloy, $2,500 each; and Walter G. Robbins of Detroit, president of Carboloy, $1,000.

Airplane Crashes, 7 Escape Injury

PORTSMOUTH — (AP) — Seven men aboard a twin-motored army cargo plane escaped uninjured yesterday when the plane landed in a cornfield 12 miles west of here after an engine caught fire. The plane suffered only minor damage. It was piloted by Capt. John Goodwin, who said the ship was en route from Eglin Field, Fla., to Lockbourne air base near Columbus, with eight tons of aviation equipment.

Wells Give Half Water, Half Gas

MEDINA —(AP)— Wells that formerly gave only water recently have given several residents of nearby Litchfield a half-and-half mixture of water and high grade gasoline.

Investigators for the state fire marshal and county health officer have failed so far to uncover the source of the gasoline.

Most plausible theory is that tanks of a nearby filling station were leaking into the shale strata which drains water into the wells.

Organizations and individuals contributed $2,173 to the bond issue campaign fund, leaving a balance of $649 which went into a P-TA council fund for future campaigns.

Among those who contributed $50 or more are listed the Ohio Brass company, $100; Vernon Redding Associates, architects, $50; Mansfield Federation of Teachers, $50; Insurance Board of Mansfield, $100; Tappan Stove company, $100; Architect Herbert S. Bids Children Goodby, Kills Self With Gas

LYNN, Mass — (UP) — George C. Day, 31-year-old electrical engineer, native of Cleveland, tucked his four children into bed and kissed them good night.

Then he told his wife Ruth, 29, that she might as well go to bed too as he was going to "sit up and read a book." Mrs. Day retired. At 3 a. m. today, Mrs. George Paris, upstairs neighbor of the Days, awoke Mrs. Day by a telephone call. She said she smelled gas.

Mrs. Day walked into the kitchen of her apartment and found her husband's body sprawled on the floor beside a kitchen stove with gas pouring from the open jets. He was dead.

Reds Open New Attack

Million Chinese Lock In Battle

NANKING —(UP)—Chinese communist forces opened a new attack west of Hsuchow today, field dispatches reported, in an apparent bid to flank the stubborn nationalist defenses of the Kiangsu rail hub and flood down along the approaches to Nanking.

Late reports on the confused struggle over a broad stretch around Hsuchow said four communist columns were trying to swing around government positions west of the city and push southward toward the capital.

The battle positions were obscure all around the strategic town which the nationalists call the "gateway to Nanking," some 200 miles to the southeast. They appeared to have shifted considerably in battles of the last few days, reported by the government to involve 1,000,000 men—the biggest engagement ever fought in China.

Government reports from Hsuchow said Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's men still held the upper hand. But the conflicting claims of the opposing armies have dealt largely in generalities for some days.

Both sides were reported jockeying for strategic positions on a broad arc around Hsuchow.

The Central Daily News, nationalist organ, said in reporting the government victory east of Hsuchow that an area of seven square miles around Ghanghuang was strewn with about 30,000 communist dead after the engagement.

Chiang's Aide Dies

NANKING—(INS)—Chen Pu-Lei, influential and trusted advisor of President Chiang Kai-Shek, died today in Nanking. The Chinese press reported that a heart attack caused the death of the 58-year-old former newspaperman who was credited with writing many of the generalissimo's speeches.

Crowd Sees Colorful Spectacle

Grid Show Pays Honor to 'Royalty'

By BILL HERRING

Senior high school 'royalty' was paid homage last night at Arlin field.

With 11,500 football fans and students looking on, Beverly Bissell, 1948 Tyger homecoming queen, received the plaudits of the crowd. She was driven around the gridiron in an auto with her attendants prior to the opening kickoff of the game, and then returned on a float at halftime to be spotlighted in the impressive show staged between halves.

Attendants to the queen were Suzanne Adams, Audrey Pirrgo, Charlotte Boyd and Betsy Clark. All were chosen by the student body from the junior class at the school. A motorcycle officer led the auto of royalty in its double circle of the playing field.

Hamilton's Big Blue band, under the direction of Irvin C. Hamilton, formed at the west end of the field and marched across and waited for the Tyger Marching Band to come alongside. Hamilton was guest conductor as the combined bands played the national anthem.

The half-time spectacle started with the colorfully uniformed Mansfield band leading the procession by playing "Pomp and Circumstance," a traditional court musical favorite. The jeweled-crown queen arrived on a red and white decorated float throne with her ladies in waiting in attendance.

ESCORTED ONTO FIELD

Knights of the Royal Court escorted her onto the field. They were in lines of eight to the right and left of the throne while just ahead was Captain of the Guards Shirley Lay. Immediately behind the captain was Prime Minister Rudy Knapp. Two pages followed the throne and lively Sally Lou Zeger was there as the court jester.

The knights formed an aisle as the captain escorted through an arch of spears. Jim Chamberlain, in his Tyger grid uniform in the role as Knight of the Pigskin, to the prime minister who gave the scepter to Jim.

Queen Beverly then accepted the scepter—a token of esteem from her people—and the prime minister and knight of pigskin were escorted to the line of knights by the captain of the guard.

The queen's throne was moved to midfield and the performance ended as she walked through an aisle of knights to a special stand in the stadium.

The crowd, knowing it was the final 1948 home appearance of the football warriors, gave the band, Tygerettes and those responsible for staging the half-time performances an ovation long to be remembered.

Dick Butts is student director of the Mansfield Tyger Marching band while Shirley Lay and Ethyl Battin directed the Tygerettes. Stage construction was handled by boys of the vocational education department under the direction of V. H. Oberlander.

J. Merton Holcombe had charge of the productions which received the support of the Band Parents' club and the Tyger Booster club.

Striking Miners Kidnap Policemen

PARIS — (AP) — Rioting strikers attacked a government-held coal mine in south central France today and kidnaped three policemen. In Paris a communist-called 24-hour general strike stalled virtually all municipal subway and bus lines, forcing workers in this city of 4,000,000 persons to walk to their jobs.

Tygers Rip Down 'Champs'

By FRED THARP
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

A great, inspired Mansfield Senior high school football team blazoned its name in huge letters across the Ohio gridiron sky last night by shattering Hamilton's dream of a state championship, 27 to 20.

Some 11,500 wildly cheering fans were treated to one of the finest displays ever seen on any gridiron, anywhere.

For the first 16 minutes the Tygers of Augie Morningstar were invincible. They piled up 20 points in that stretch to make the Bib Blue of Hamilton bluer than blue. After that big surge, the Tygers held no with a grim determination and at the finish they were only three yards from another score.

They had to be good. Hamilton was every bit as tough as heralded. However, the Big Blue was at a tremendous disadvantage. It did not have the spirited backing of the town of Mansfield which yelled itself hoarse cheering "their boys" to victory.

No player could be singled out as a star—it was essentially a team victory. The Tyger forward wall was a stone wall on many occasions and tossed Jim (Boxcar) Bailey, a cinch All-Ohio choice, for losses six times.

A. C. (Sparky) Jenkins, Mansfield back, drove himself so hard he was partially knocked out four times. The crowd groaned each time he got hit. But Jenkins kept pulling himself back into the game and rolled up 143 yards on 16 carries. The big junior fullback took care of two Bengal tallies, one on a 62-yard trap play.

CALL RIGHT PLAYS

The Tygers could do little wrong. The choice of plays was superb and Paul Ferguson put on one of his finest passing performances. He completed four of seven tosses.

A cold wind enveloped the field and the underfooting was a slippery mess, but the adverse conditions did not seem to bother the players.

One thing is sure. The result jumbled up the state high school grid polls. Hamilton had been

Mr. and Mrs. John Debell reported their daughter's disappearance to police after Miss Foster 18-year-old University of Colorado freshman, was abducted and murdered here Tuesday. Miss Debell disappeared Nov. 1.

Sheriff Arthur Everson said that Amarillo police hold for questioning two unidentified men. Everson said they would be held until their car has been checked for possible clues to the brutal murder of Miss Foster.

U. S. Shipping Throttled By Labor Walkout

NEW YORK — (UP) — A strike of 45,000 AFL longshoremen put every major port on the Atlantic seaboard out of business today.

The walkout, which began officially at 12:01 a. m., virtually completed the tie-up of all shipping on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. CIO longshoremen on the Pacific coast have been on strike for 73 days.

Only U. S. ports open were those on the gulf coast and that part of the Atlantic seaboard south of Hampton Roads, Va.

A freight embargo already cut off all export shipments to Boston and New York and was expected to be extended to the entire eastern seaboard Monday. Mayor William O'Dwyer of New York was hurrying home from a California vacation to take an active part in settling the dispute.

The walkout of all AFL longshoremen from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads was an extension of the wildcat strike which has tied up the ports of Boston and New York for three days.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association (AFL), called the strike after the men overwhelmingly rejected a new contract providing a 10-cent hourly wage increase and other benefits.

It was the first time in the history of the union that a strike had been sanctioned by top union officials. Previous strikes had been confined to wildcat walkouts.

The strike cut off all shipping, including vital Marshall plan aid to European countries. Only U. S. Army ships, carrying supplies to troops overseas were moving.

NO GULF STRIKE

Many ocean liners have been diverted to Halifax. Special boat trains were bringing passengers to New York. Shipping men feared that diversion of ships to gulf ports would bring about an extension of the strike to that area.

The 28,000 Gulf of Mexico longshoremen were expected to sign a contract with gulf shipowners soon. The gulf longshoremen usually follow the lead of east coast dockworkers but union leaders said they did not anticipate any strike at this time.

There was some speculation that President Truman would intervene in the walkout but officials pointed out that he already had done everything possible under the Taft-Hartley law to avert the tie-up.

An injunction under the labor law had postponed the walkout for 80 days. It expired last Tuesday.

Railroads extended their embargo on export freight shipments to every major port on the eastern seaboard.

The New York office of the Association of American Railroads announced that the embargo, clamped down yesterday on shipments to the ports of New York and Boston, was being applied "immediately" to Baltimore, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Del., and Hampton Roads, Va.

Russia Says U. S. Plans Air Attack

Charges Hurled At U. N. Meeting

PARIS—(AP)—Russia asked the United States before all of the United Nations today:

"You are preparing a Pearl Harbor for the Soviet Union, aren't you?"

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky declared heatedly in the U. N. Political committee "The European part of Russia—this heart of Russia—is being aimed at."

Vishinsky said Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney of the United States air force wrote in the magazine Newsweek last May 17 of a plan to use the atom bomb against Moscow and other key Soviet cities.

Vishinsky shook his pen at American delegate Frederick Osborn, an atomic specialist, as he talked.

The Soviet delegate thumped the table and waved his arms vigorously as he replied to charges made by Osborn yesterday. Osborn contended Russia is using "propaganda to prepare her people for war" and still aims at world revolution.

Vishinsky said Kenney wrote that airplanes carrying atom bombs could take off from British bases and, flying at 35,000 feet, could strike at Moscow and other Russian key cities.

"Do we say that our airplanes will slip in over the United States with their objective New York?" he asked.

Vishinsky declared there was "unbridled war propaganda" in the United States.

He said Soviet Prime Minister Stalin believed "peaceful forces will not permit Winston Churchill and his forces to prevail."

Not Quitting, Marshall Says

PARIS — (UP) — Secretary of State George C. Marshall announced today that he had made no decision to resign from the cabinet Jan. 20.

Marshall issued a brief statement as a result of a story in the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune today. It said Marshall "still clings to his original intention to resign from the cabinet toward the close of President Truman's first term in office."

The text to Marshall's statement: "I note in this morning's press a statement alleging that I 'still cling to my original intention to resign from the cabinet by Jan. 20.' "I regret that my remarks at a press conference yesterday have been misconstrued. I thought I had made it obvious that I would never take a decision of this nature without discussing it with the president, and that he and I have never discussed the matter."

FIND WOMAN'S BODY

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The body of Mrs. Emma Lauenstein, 89, who had been missing since Wednesday, was found yesterday in the east fork of the Little Miami river.

Rail Unions O.K. Raise

CHICAGO —(UP)— The railroad industry moved another step closer to labor peace today as three more key unions accepted a third round wage increase of 10 cents an hour.

Top officers and general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Switchmen's Union of North America decided to accept the railroads' offer late yesterday.

But the nation's rail network still faces the threat of a strike by 16 unions representing 1,000,000 non-operating employes.

However all of the "big five" operating brotherhoods, composed of the men who really run the trains, had agreed to accept the 10-cent offer.

Sailing Club Wants Stumps Cut Off

Decision On Charles Mill Plan Due Soon

A decision on lowering the level of Charles Mill reservoir east of Mansfield to permit workmen to cut off tree stumps which interfere with navigation is expected from the State Conservation commission within a week or 10 days.

The request was submitted at a public hearing yesterday by the Mohican Sailing club which operates boats on the lake.

Club spokesmen said they didn't want the stumps removed — just cut off low enough so they won't snag boats. The state, however, must approve the lowering of the water level.

The program has been approved by the Muskingum conservancy district as well as James Burkhart, president of the Richland County Fish and Game association. Members of the latter organization have complained that it is difficult to operate outboard motors in the Charles Mill reservoir because of the stumps.

Sailing club spokesmen said the lower water level would be maintained for a short time only and would not endanger fish life.

At yesterday's meeting, called to hear suggestions on revisions of the state fish and game laws, the commission heard requests for unrestricted fishing in all the state's streams and lakes, licensing of turtle and frog hunters and that the possession limit of wild minnows be raised from 50 to 100.

Mohican Sailing club officials said they would pay the extra cost for their area and the handle the expense of any work other organizations would handle the expense of any work done in their locations.

Sand Hogs Add Chapter To History of Tunnels

By JEROME DREYER

NEW YORK—This is the story of sandhogs, a strange breed of men who do their daily toil beneath the beds of rivers—boring tubes and lining them with iron. They are proud of their profession and the tunnels they push through rock, muck and water. The finished product, they feel, is a monument to their ability.

This is the story of all the sandhogs who, for the sake of simplicity, we'll call Joe, and of their latest achievement, the tunnel they are boring under the East river to connect the Borough of Brooklyn with the Battery, at the tip of the Borough of Manhattan.

Next year, or perhaps in 1950, motorists, after paying their quarter, will speed through the well-ventilated tunnel, protected from the enormous pressure and muck and water about them.

They will marvel at the 9,100-foot $77,000,000 shaft, the longest in the country, and be thankful for the time saved in traveling from one borough to another, but few will think of Joe, the man who made it possible.

Joe, the prototype of all sandhogs, comes from a family that made tunnel digging a profession. It was natural that he should follow in his father's footsteps.

His first job, while still in his teens, was under his dad's guidance, and when he had absorbed all the attributes that make for a good sandhog, he struck out for himself.

★

"BATTLE ROYAL"

Jobs all over the world called for his special skill, and now, his most recent chore has taken him to the damp pressure under the East river here. A few weeks ago he finished his half of the tunnel and the occasion, unlike in former years, was marked by a mild celebration.

Formerly the "holing through" ceremony called for a battle royal in which the crews working out from both shores of the river fought with pick handles for the privilege of being first through the opening. This time it was a foot race following the unceremonious blast of 30 pounds of dynamite.

Superficially, it appears that pushing a tunnel under a river presents no great problem. Just sink shafts on both sides, then dig until you meet halfway. Cast iron forms are put in and then lined with tile. Hook up some fresh air pumps, connect lights, build some toll booths and presto! the tunnel is ready.

If you should tell Joe the job is as simple as all that, he would probably laugh in your face and then, patiently, explain step by step what actually is involved.

He would tell you how he is subjected to terrific pressure from the mud and water around him, and that the only way to hold back this constant menace is to pump in air to match the pressure outside.

We would tell you that the spearhead of tunnel digging is "the shield" a huge circle of solid iron. With air compressed behind it, this shield pushes into the ooze and rock 32 inches at a time, the moving being done by hydraulic jacks.

When the shield has moved 32 inches, an iron circle is inserted. These rings, abutting each other, form the outer wall of the tunnel. On good days, he adds, he can do a ring an hour.

Joe's big worry is the pressure that holds back the outside elements. So high is this pressure men can work in it for only 40-minute periods. Even then "bends" are not uncommon.

Infinitely more danger presents itself when a weak spot in the river bed is struck and the inside air pressure breaks through the musk, forming a vacuum. What happens then is explained by Joe:

★

SIXTH SENSE

"There's a fellow working on this Brooklyn-Battery job who also worked in the Queens Midtown tunnel," relates Joe. "One morning they drove into a soft spot and he saw the man ahead of him disappear as though he had been shot out of a cannon into the head of the tunnel.

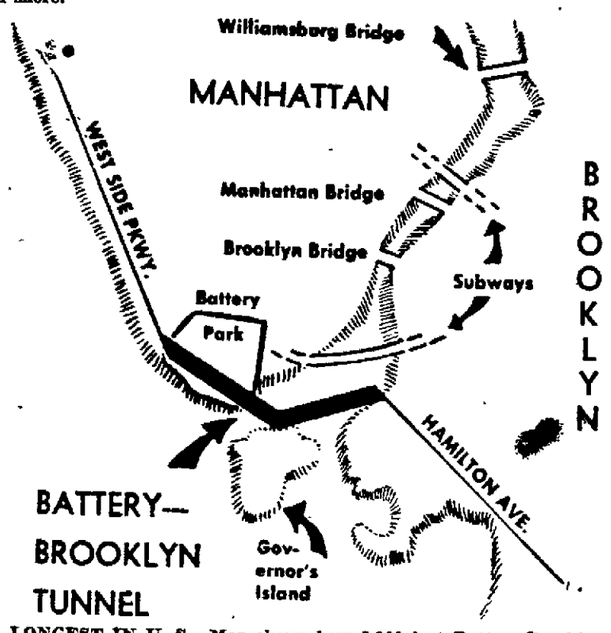
"Before he could open his mouth, he was pulled through the hole himself. He shot through the muck and water and into the air above the river. The body of the first man, killed instantly, cleared the way through for the second, who was pulled out of the river and spent six months in bed."

That Joe has confidence in his fellow workers is evidenced by the fact that they talk little when going about the job. They have a kind of understanding rarely found in other groups of workers, a sixth sense that permits them to perform complicated operations without oral signals.

Accidents do occur, but rarely are they Joe's fault. He is a living example of how a man can work and live safely in the middle of constant danger. Nothing is taken for granted from the minute he sets foot in the tunnel until he leaves.

When Joe enters the working head, his first mental calculation tells him how long it will take to get to the escape door in the shield and the escape catwalk high under the tunnel's arch.

His day's work done, Joe decompresses slowly in the air lock before coming to the surface. It is there that he sheds his streaked hard hat, muddy boots and rumpled clothes, the trappings of a highly skilled labor aristocracy.



LONGEST IN U. S.—Map shows how 9,100-foot Battery-Brooklyn shaft, longest tunnel in the country, will reach from West Side Parkway, Manhattan, to Hamilton avenue, Brooklyn.

Walter White Says—

Truman Civil Rights Program Won Votes

I would like to add one postmortem to the incredible Truman victory. I want to do this because the results constitute one of the most gratifying proofs of the growth of human decency in the United States which has appeared for many years.

Embarrassed commentators who predicted a Dewey walkaway are attributing Truman's victory to labor's opposition to the Taft-Hartley law, to the overconfidence of the GOP and Dewey's bland refusal to be specific on issues, to unwillingness to change administrations during a period of high prices and national income. These and several others played their part in the upset. But no one issue played a greater role in the pivotal states than one which every "practical politician" in the country believed meant political suicide for Truman when he took his unequivocal stand for civil rights.

White

The result of Nov. 2 proved that in a time of national crisis the voter admires most and will support candidates who forego pussy-footing and slick politicking and take positions which are clear and comprehensible, even when they may apparently be against the trend of American opinion.

Even the South repudiated the Dixiecrats and supported Truman despite all the anguished screams of the Strom Thurmonds, Fielding Wrights, John Rankins and the Gerald L. K. Smiths. But during the 80th Congress, the conservative leadership of the Republicans continued to play ball with the arch-reactionary Southerners with ill-concealed contempt for the pleas of minorities for action, particularly Negro voters who held (and used) the balance of power in many pivotal states. (Rumor has it that some Republicans contemplate following the same ill-starred policy in the 81st Congress.)

Republicans and Democrats alike were singularly blind to what was going on all over the country in connection with civil rights. More than one million copies of the report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights had been bought and paid for in cash by Americans Almost as many digests of the report had been published by various private organizations. Thousands of church, labor union, college, high school, civic, minority and other groups had studied the findings of the committee. Many thousands of mass meetings had been held to discuss its recommendations. Countless editorials, pro and con, had appeared in American newspapers and magazines.

KNOWLEDGE WIDESPREAD

As a result probably more Americans had acquired first-hand knowledge of this document than of any other government publication in recent history. Even those who disagreed with its recommendations in whole or in part were unable to deny that they are in the tradition of the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence.

Many, many more including white Southerners agreed in their hearts and minds that most if not all of the recommendations must be followed. And even more they admired the courage of a President who had resisted the most arrogant and cruel abuse since that heaped on Lincoln to fight for such a program and to defy the bigots.

Most noticeable among racial groups was the gratitude of Negroes. In Harlem and other areas throughout the country placards reminded Negro voters, "Don't Be Ungrateful." Republicans poured money and the Wallaceites oratory into Negro districts to little avail. Truman carried Negro precincts by margins of from two and five to one.

The crucial 88 electoral votes of Illinois, Ohio and California went to Truman by a fraction of the popular votes cast by Negroes for him in those states. These votes were dropped into the ballot boxes by dark-skinned hands even though the voters believed in many cases that they were fighting a lost cause. But win or lose, they were determined to show where they stood.

There can be no question that the pro-Truman percentage of California's 200,000 Negro voters supplied more than his 63,000 margin of victory in that state, that Illinois 312,000 Negro voters gave the President his 51,000 majority, (76 per cent of the vote in the 11 Chicago wards where Negroes live went for Truman) and that enough of Ohio's 275,000 Negro voters were responsible for his margin of a scant 18,451.

Switching of these three states would have given Dewey 277 electoral votes, reduced Truman's to 216. Perhaps Governor Dewey had this in mind when he told the press wistfully that "'a shift of 1½ per cent of the vote would have told a different story."

I would like to make a suggestion to the red-faced Messrs. Gallup and Roper—that in future polls they also interrogate Americans like the colored employe of a friend of mine. On the morning after election she shyly proffered her employer a beautiful sample of her culinary skill with the statement, "This is a Truman cake."

Pressed for an explanation she said that whenever she is worried it is her custom to pray silently and bake a cake. If the cake rose properly her prayer seemed always to be answered; if it fell, she knew disappointment was in store. On election night as she listened to the Republicans prematurely claiming victory, the cake rose. Her worries vanished as she knew in her heart that "The President who stuck his neck out for my people is going to win."

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, November 14

Sunday's horoscope richly emphasizes the so-called "Opportunity Aspects" in science of stellar influences. It would be difficult to "block the wheels of progress" under such bounteous auspices. Serious and practically constructive projects or objectives are bound to attain satisfactory climax, with much to be attained by shrewd and energetic tactics and forthright attack. Plans and aspirations of a more personal or domestic interest also thrive. Visiting, parties and Sabbath ceremonials are due for happy fruition.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, are encouraged to prepare for the happy and prosperous fulfillment of their highest hopes and wishes. This holds true in business and professional life as well as social, cultural and romantic associations in which much joy and gratification are assured. Security and development of practically constructive goals gain by shrewd and sagacious preparation.

A child born on this day should be bounteosuly blessed with the clements and character for outstanding success of practical and enduring quality, with a happy end efficient life, with prestige and popularity.

Bears Beat Pennsylvania's Hunters, Open Hostilities

BROOKVILLE, Pa. — (AP) — Although Pennsylvania's big game season doesn't open until next Monday, the bears around Brookville have declared war already.

In the last few days the following damage done by bruins has been reported:

Mrs. Henry Klohr of nearby Sigel said a bear stole a young pig from her farm.

Martin Lucas, a neighbor of Mrs. Klohr, said a bear was caught in the act of stealing one of his pigs but was forced to flee empty handed when Lucas opened fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Painter reported that they were forced to stop when a large bear blocked a road near Brookville. The Painters turned their car around and took another road when the bear ignored their horn blowing.

Men to Talk On Missions

Churches of the city have been asked to help observe Men and Missions Sunday tomorrow by the Laymen's Missionary Movement. Henry A. Senert, resident chairman for the 18th annual observance, has announced.

It was planned to have a layman speak briefly at each of the local churches on World Missions and to have each pastor discuss briefly a similar topic.

Theme for this year's study by the Laymen's Missionary Movement is "Millions are waiting-while Christ waits for us."

Plans are being made to make this a particularly emphatic year among church laymen throughout the country, Senert said.

"The conditions which obtain everywhere in the world at present emphasize the need for missions," Senert said. "Men will be confronted with their responsibility for Christian world missions as possibly never before."

Longest Trial Ends, Tojo Found Guilty

JUST WHY the trial of Japanese war criminals should have dragged through two and a half years—making it the longest in history—is hard to understand . . . as the guilt of Tojo, at least, could scarcely have been in doubt at any time.

It may have been the complications involved in trying the case before a military tribunal in which eleven nations were represented that caused the case to run on into the third year, but in any event it is finally ended and the verdicts announced.

Tojo, who became known as Japan's "Pearl Harbor premier," and six of his associates found guilty as chief instigators of Nipponese aggression and "war crimes against humanity," have been sentenced to death by hanging, while sixteen adjudged somewhat lesser offenders are to be imprisoned for the remainder of their lives.

Had the charge against Tojo been no more than that his order launched the infamous sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, December 7, 1941, it would seem obvious that he had thus forfeited the right to live.

But there were ten counts against Tojo, including perpetration of mass atrocities in every Pacific theater of World War II, and he was found guilty on all of them.

Judging from the slight regard which Tojo and his coconspirators showed for human life during temporary Japanese ascendency in the Far East after the Pearl Harbor attack, his present philosophic attitude toward the death sentence is understandable, and his earlier attempt at suicide also fits into the picture of the barbarian traits still observable in some of the vicious animals that have appeared upon earth in human form.

As Tojo's life ends on the gallows he will be the last of the top Axis triumvirate to be brought to ignominious death—first it was Hitler, then Mussolini, now Tojo. The record is not such as to invite imitators.

What Should U. S. Do About China?

SENATOR BRIDGES' suggestion that the President call Congress into special session to consider the problem of aid to China is timely. Indeed, it might be well for the legislators to survey the whole field of foreign aid.

It is important that the American public be fully and promptly advised of how their billions of tax dollars are being spent. The crisis in China makes it plain that the purpose of foreign aid should be clearly stated. Is it charity? Is it to feed and clothe the needy? Is it also a diplomatic weapon?

Originally much of the foreign aid was supposed to make the people being helped eventually self-sustaining. Is it succeeding in this? What are the needs at present?

What can be done about China, outside of blunt military assistance, at this stage of the game is questionable. But if our efforts have not been successful in China they had better be weighed elsewhere and made effective.

When Vandals Are On the Loose

PROTECTION of lives and property are rightly regarded as among the chief purposes of such law enforcement agencies as the city police department and county sheriff's office, and the utmost vigilance may be reasonably expected of those who are employed to guard law-abiding citizens against acts of vandalism or crime.

There is appearance of need, however, for public co-operation with law enforcement employes in some instances, as policing cannot be expected to extend to the point of having an officer immediately available to arrest offenders.

A case in point is that of the vandalism practiced in recent weeks at the plant of the Renie Metal Products company, located on Bowman street just outside the corporation limits, where many windows have been broken by stone-throwers operating under cover of darkness.

While Sheriff Frank E. Robinson has promised extra efforts at protection of this property, and others in the area, residents of that vicinity might well help to disclose and punish the perpetrators of such acts of vandalism—which reflect unfavorably upon the sections in which they occur.

Silt Threatens Usefulness of Dams

ONE EVIDENCE of the land damage resulting from erosion is found in the deposits of silt which accumulate at dams across streams. Lyman Carrier, former official of the Soil Conservation Service, recalls a study of millpond silting made by the service in 1934, in which it was found that one-fourth of the ponds examined had been ruined by silt, some in as short a time as ten years after construction.

He said large dams built in the last decade or two, specifically mentioning those of the Tennessee Valley Authority development, also are filling up with silt. Some of these may accumulate enough silt to destroy their usefulness within fifty years or less, he said in an article in the Commonwealth, a Virginia magazine.

Mr. Carrier was citing the need for upper stream protection to hold back the silt and prolong the usefulness of the big dams. The argument is valid on that basis, but there also is a powerful argument to be made for measures which would in addition protect the land. Silt can be dredged from a dam reservoir, if the dam is large enough and important enough to make the operation worthwhile. But the silt can hardly be spread again on the land from which it came.

Whether we do it to protect investment in river works or to protect the productivity of the land, we need to go much further than we have in positive steps to control soil erosion.

In the Fiji Islands, says an Englishman who knows them well, a man reckons his wealth not by the amount of his property but by the number of friends from whom he can beg—and that idea doesn't seem to be confined entirely to the Fiji Islands.

Direction By 'Old Guard' Weakens GOP

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — Every four years for the last sixteen years, after each Republican defeat for the presidency, there rises from the ranks a cry that the party must reorganize itself among lines more in accord with the demands of the times and the needs of the people and must shake off the dead weight of the GOP Old Guard.

But the results each time have shown that not enough of the voters have been convinced that such a reformation has occurred.

The cry is going up again. It is encouraging that it is coming, among other places, from the place where it can be most effective. That is Congress where, between elections, the record is made which is the only demonstration to the public of what the party really stands for. Already the progressive wing of the party in the Senate is astir.

While still outnumbered, it is energetic and vocal. It has a nucleus in New England where there is an earthy, grass roots, town-meeting sort of progressivism embodied in such figures as Senators Aiken and Flanders (Vt.), Tobey, (N.H.), Saltsonstall and Lodge (Mass.), Baldwin (Conn.) and the new addition, Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith (Maine).

There are also Senators Ives (N.Y.), Smith (N. J.) and Morse (Ore.) from the Far West, among others who recognize the need for change in the party's approach to national problems.

They are seeking a voice in the high councils of the party in Congress. It is hoped they will get somewhere this time.

As their best argument they have past experience, notably that of two years ago when the Republican party had a great opportunity that it failed to grasp. It was swept into control of Congress in 1946 under the auspicious circumstance that it has been traditional that the party which captures Congress from the party in power in off-year congressional elections goes on to capture the whole government two years later.

That this did not happen is evidence of the failure of the party to capitalize its advantage.

* * *

Old Guard Takes Control.

TWO YEARS ago the GOP Old Guard immediately took over. It may be recalled how Senator Taft (O) and a few other leaders gathered here well in advance to arrange things among themselves, Committee chairmanships and assignments and general policy. It was so arbitrary that newer and younger members, sixteen altogether, signed a round robin of protest. It helped some, but not much.

Under the general program of old line leaders, the first session of the 80th Congress was devoted to matters that concerned the big interests that supported the party and contributed so heavily to the congressional victory.

We had the first version of what President Truman called "the rich man's tax bill"; the Taft-Hartley labor regulatory act, and an economy drive that hit farmers, public power and reclamation projects in the West so hard that that section howled and, as the election November 2 showed, never forgot.

The second session was to give consideration to a social welfare program—housing, health, education and minimum wage increase.

It is history now how the House leadership blocked all those measures so that, when the history of that Congress was written, the party had nothing to show the average voter.

But, despite failure to do these things, the party's national convention came out for them again in its platform, as it had done four years before.

If the progressive element wants to rescue the party from the clutches of the Old Guard that has led it to defeat so often, now is the time to act and Congress is the place to act.

Washington Calling

An Unpopular Committee

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE SCORE on the House un-American activities committee as of today stands: Chairman J. Parnell Thomas indicted by a federal grand jury on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government; Reps. Richard B. Vail of Illinois and John McDowell of Pennsylvania defeated by the voters in their respective districts.

Rep. Karl Mundt of South Dakota was elected to the Senate. This leaves only one Republican survivor unscathed. That is Rep. Richard M. Nixon of California, who was re-elected in a contest in which his only opponent was a Wallaceite.

This illustrates once again the high mortality rate of the members of a committee which has managed from the beginning to get into hot water and stay there.

Of the members appointed when the committee was formed in 1938, Thomas is the only one to come through the storm and strife to the present.

The first chairman was Rep. Martin Dies of Texas. In his swashbuckling, slapdash way, he set the pattern. With one eye on newspaper headlines and the other on the newsreel cameras, Dies ignored ordinary rules of procedure in a search for sensations.

Dies was defeated when he ran for the Senate in 1944. The votes of organized labor contributed substantially to that outcome.

Four others of the original members ultimately went down to defeat. This included former Rep. Jerry Voorhis of California even though he had tried to curb some of the excesses that had brought sharp criticism. Rep. Noah Mason of Illinois got off the committee and he has been returned at succeeding elections including the one last week.

After he took over as chairman, Thomas succeeded in making Dies look like a sternly objective statesman. Behind the scenes, a cabal of newspaper men and informers really ran the committee, under the tutelage of the secretary, Robert E. Stripling. Stripling, interestingly enough, has survived while the congressmen he coached and prodded went down to disaster and oblivion.

* * *

Widespread Criticism.

CRITICISM of the committee came not merely from labor and the left. By its methods the committee seemed determined to punish as well as to investigate and expose. Americans of conservative opinion felt that here was an attempt by Congress to usurp the functions of the courts.

Individual cases brought wide indignation. Thus Dr. Edward U. Condon, head of the bureau of standards, was smeared in a public statement and yet, in spite of his repeated requests, never given a chance to answer the vague charges publicly made against him.

Thomas is a man of dark suspicions and inquisitorial temperament. He has a kind of self-righteousness which persuades him that he is saving the republic from imminent danger.

Two years before the Republican sweep of 1946, a Democratic House voted to give the committee permanent status as a standing committee. Southern Democrats combined with Republicans and the vote was 208 to 186 over the indignant protests of those who felt this was blanket approval for outrageous committee procedure.

In the new Congress there certainly will be a strenuous attempt to wipe out the un-American committee. Many incoming Democrats will take it as part of their mandate to try to eliminate it.

Democratic leaders in the House will be sympathetic to such a move. But they are not optimistic over its success.

If the committee is to perform any sort of useful function, it will have to overcome the serious handicap of its past reputation. One of the first steps would be to eliminate stripling.

Summary of Week's Happenings

GOP Attention Already Turning to 1952

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A RESHUFFLING of the Democratic and Republican leadership apparently is in the making as a result of the election. While President Truman relaxed on vacation at the Key West, Fla., naval base, speculation mounted in Washington over prospective changes among top-ranking members of his administration.

The President, himself, kept mum but it is known that Secretary of Defense James V. Forrestal will not be urged to remain. Some of the Democratic command are gunning for Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer.

Secretary of State Marshall, for whom the President has high regard, likely will remain at his post as long as he has any hope of reaching agreement with the Russians. But Robert A. Lovett, undersecretary of state, is reportedly slated to go, voluntarily or otherwise.

Dewey Suns in Arizona.

Governor Dewey, vacationing in Arizona, said he has no intention of stepping down as titular Republican leader. But after his second straight defeat for the presidency he said flatly he would not run again.

Congressional GOP leaders are such familiar figures as Sen. Arthur Vandenburg of Michigan, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Speaker Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts and Floor Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana.

None of these appears a standout now for the long pull to 1952.

Many GOP politicians are beginning to look outside the formal congressional leadership. Those catching their eye include men like Harold E. Stassen, Sen. Irving Ives of New York, Sen. William Knowland of California, Sen. Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, jr., of Massachusetts.

Warren Appears Strong.

Gov. Warren should not be overlooked. It was a frequently heard Republican comment during the campaign that the top ticket should have been reversed.

Stassen's appeal to many Republicans lies largely in a belief that he has widespread influence among younger voters.

It was this asset, more than any other, which is said to have led Dewey to forget some of Stassen's pre-convention cracks and invite him to take an active part in the campaign.

At Home

White House Repairs.

There will be no sightseeing or social events at the White House until further notice. The 132-year-old mansion of the presidents has been closed for repairs.

The historic building has been examined by engineers and architects during the past few months under authority of the last session of Congress. They found that "extensive repairs must be made to assure the safety of the building.

The White House, which has been labeled a "firetrap," is to remain closed until further notice.

The architects and engineers proposed that, with the consent of Congress, repairs be started at the earliest possible date.

White House architect Lorenzo Winslow has announced plans to renovate the entire second floor at an estimated cost of from $750,000 to $1,250,000.

Oregon's Plight.

Red - faced Oregonians have found out—too late—they voted themselves into a financial dungeon.

Oregonians gave a rousing approval at the polls to a $50 monthly old-age pensions plan—to be paid regardless of the recipient's need.

At once bond companies withdrew bids on bond issues. "The state is a poor risk. It's darned near insolvent," one investment expert said.

Startled residents learned their pension plan might cost as much as nine million dollars monthly—three times what the state now spends on all activities. No provision had been made to finance the pensions.

Even the Townsend club, sponsor of the pension plan, is contrite.

"It wasn't what we intended. We don't want to bankrupt the state," a Townsend spokesman said. "We will ask the next legislature to change the law."

* * *

Better Be Careful.

Don't look now but there may be an income tax agent poring over your shoulder next year. It won't necessarily mean you're a chiseler but it may mean that people in your income or occupational group are especially prone to be careless.

The Internal Revenue Bureau is putting in a poll-type procedure—despite that election fubar—to check up on persons who try to cheat on taxes. It works something like this:

Tax agents will pick at random a limited number of returns from each group of returns according to the taxpayers' occupation, locality and income bracket. They will examine each one. Even if it looks perfect, they will demand that the taxpayer substantiate its accuracy.

If the process shows a tendency by particular groups — according to occupation, location or income bracket—to file "bad" returns, the bureau will concentrate on checking other returns from the suspect group.

Abroad

Ruhr Is Vital Key.

The Ruhr is Europe's "Pittsburgh." Within this area, smaller than the state of Delaware but populated by five million, are the mightiest coal, coke and steel concentrations on the continent.

Its potential for good or evil is tremendous. Within the 20th century, its steel sinews have powered two German drives for world domination. If it had not been for the lifeline across the Atlantic, each effort probably would have succeeded.

Yet without this industrial colossus at full strength, postwar reconstruction has to be rationed. Ruhr steel can build as wide a bridge to Europe's peaceful prosperity as it ever did to war.

In London this week, technical experts of six western Allied nations are conferring on how their countries may eat this industrial cake and keep it, too. Their aim is to revive Ruhr heavy industry and at the same time make it impossible for Germany to rearm.

Dividends From Aid.

The Economic Cooperation Administration credits America's 577 million dollar investment in interim aid last spring with making possible production gains in three of Europe's "worst problem" countries — Austria, France and Italy.

The interim aid was the second of two major foreign aid steps taken while the Marshall Plan was being set up. The first was for 350 million dollars in emergency relief.

Although interim aid was intended primarily to keep the three nations going until the European Recovery Program could get in full swing, ECA found that all three countries actually made economic gains with the shot in the arm provided by American coal, grains, fertilizer and other supplies.

It is generally accepted by both the French leaders and the French people that interim aid was indispensable in holding the French economy intact, the report says.

Hunting By Flashlight

By CALVIN A. BYERS

A NARROW gravel road runs through the northern side of our valley — crosses the gurgling steam by a strong concrete bridge. Last night was bright moonlight. I took a flashlight with me and turned the light against the hedge, the roadside ditch, the bank, as I walked along. It is a quiet, harmless method of hunting that suits me better than a gun. And it never fails to attract the shining eyes of many mysterious wild things.

A skunk came by with five small ones trailing her, single file. I turned the light upon them admiringly and walked slowly on until they disappeared into a culvert.

A little farther on, a rustle in the leaves told of the presence of a pheasant cock, who fanned out of the hedgerow on broad wings and took off across the field in the moonlight to land in the swamp and begin calling loudly. I saw the bent elm branch where he had perched before my light searched him out and frightened him.

A rabbit scurried out in front of me, sat upright on his haunches, took one look, and back tracked back into his hiding place in the weeds.

Up on the slope above the bank, the flashlight reflected three more pairs of eyes that shone like coals. Two more pairs shone from the ditch, and I made out our two housecats prowling jungle fashion. Mice or moles, a shrew, sometimes even half a rabbit have been dragged home by them and deposited in the attic by way of their private corridor between the two-by-fours.

Presently I leaned upon the cement bridge. Close to the water's edge a raccoon was looking for worms, or clams, or something that he had cached in the stream bed. I know it was a raccoon, for next day, as I passed, I went down and looked closely at his infant-like tracks in the mud.

A little nighttime walk along a country road makes one sure that night life is not altogether a city product. At various times I have seen a red fox, a deer, owls, possums and once a land turtle promenading in the moonlight along this gravel country road.

Timely Editorial

Spotlight on Lausche.

The Journal post-election editorial of a week ago declared that Frank Lausche's notable victory made him one of the nation's topmost Democrats, the man to watch for 1952.

Many other newspapers in the state have commented similarly in the past few days and a large number of political writers are agreed the next steps for Lausche will be to enter the contest for U. S. senator two years hence.

Meanwhile, the governor-elect has a better opportunity than before of carrying out his own program in Columbus. With slight Democratic majorities in both the senate and the house, he should have a friendly legislature—something he did not have in his first administration. And he is no more committed to following the dictates of party organization leaders than he was in 1945.

Not only Ohio, but the nation will be interested in what he does and how he does it.—Lorain Journal.

Asserts Taft-Hartley Bill Keeps Union Racketeers Tightly Curbed

Excuse me, stranger, but I understand you voted for Truman because you were against the Taft-Hartley law. It makes no difference to me that you voted for Truman, but why do you want to repeal this law?

Oh, so it is a slave-labor law. You never read it, but you took the word of the union crooks and dictators who are against it.

Burglars are against the laws which cramp their style, too.

This T-H law requires union bosses to swear, subject to the penalties for perjury, that they are not communists, if they want the services of the labor board.

And, you object to that, in principle, because it might interfere with your political freedom. All right, on that point, let me tell you what your union can do to you.

A few years ago, Harry Bridges was up for deportation as a communist. Philip Murray, the president of the CIO, put his name on a booklet calling this deportation a dirty outrage. The deportation was stopped by Roosevelt's Supreme court.

Last winter, Bridges decided to support Henry Wallace for president. But now the CIO abruptly fired this non-communist for supporting a candidate who also denied that he was a communist.

Murray named in place of Bridges one Timothy Flynn, of Worcester, Mass. I have made five trips to Worcester gathering material for a success story on Tim Flynn's career. My inquiries have revolved around police headquarters and I would thank Mr. Flynn, the west coast director of the CIO, for a few of his fingerprints. I just save fingerprints. It is a hobby, like stamps and autographs. I already have Mr. Flynn's photograph.

But to return to the arbitrary displacement of Bridges by the premature saint, Phil Murray, how do you like that kind of political freedom?

And remember, any union can do this without interference by any law.

Here are some gimmicks in a typical A. F. of L. constitution. These are from the constitution of Local 1 of Wine, Liquor and Distillery Workers in New York.

Under these gimmicks any member can be expelled by Ben Pross and the controlling mob for any act of "insubordination"; for conduct "discreditable" to the union; for endeavoring to create "dissension," for "advocating" or "encouraging" division of the funds; or for "encouraging, even indirectly," the teaching of "any theory" in opposition to "the principles of democracy."

So, under the American Federation of Labor and the Roosevelt-Truman labor policy, a dirty Russian-born jail-bird, and a two-time loser at that, and a member of an old family ring of bankruptcy swindlers can toss you around like that. If you go bleating to the United States attorney you can't even get in. If you raise a row remanding your rights, the marshall will throw you downstairs. Because Ben Pross is one of Bill Green's A. F. of L. racketeers and Green is a Roosevelt-Truman "labor" faker. Taft-Hartley never let anyone do these things to you, but you seem too stupid to know that.

Says Pollsters Should Memorize Harry Truman's Favorite Motto

TYPEWRITER DOODLING

"Now that Dewey has won all the polls," the column sound-in-the-nighted (on Sept. 13), "all he has to do is win the election!" . . . The pollsters should memorize Truman's pet motto: "It's what you learn after you know it all that counts" . . . You've never viewed a more engrossing thrilluloid than "Snake Pit." But why the eardrum-shattering background music? . . .The Buddy Clark-Doris Day version of "My Darling, My Darling!" (from "Where's Cholly?") is a darling

One revelation in Champ Joe Louis' mag biog puts your eyebrows on stilts: Some fight training camps rent concessions to pickpockets! . . . Love this item about the Gene Kellys, who were practicing nursery songs with their young daughter. Asked to sing "Rockabye Baby" she warbled: "Rockable baby on the tree top. When the wind blows the cradle will rock. When the bough breaks the cradle will fall. Down will come baby, cradle and all . . . BOINGGGGG!"

Onowlookahere! The latest silly for milady is a fur-lined bra. Doesn't it tickle? . . . "Hamlet" is a flicker-dilier, but $2.40 is too tall a fee for any movie . . . Laurence Olivier's recorded album of excerpts from that hit is sure to become a collectors' item . . . Broadway marquees are dripping with gore: "Kiss the Blood Off My Hands" is one. Another is "Blood on the Moon." Then there are the current films that deal with blindness, deafness and whax.

Several critics used the Gallup-Roper fizzle as a springboard for pouncing on the Hooper radio surveys. But Hooper noted in the N. Y. Times that his cannot be compared with the other polls, because the Hooper is based on what a listener heard—not a forecast of what he might do.

Things I Never Knew Till Now: That Mr. Gallup is a registered Republican . . . Walter Kiernan's gab is ear arresting via his WJZ-ingers. I liked his crack in the paper, too. About the White House "Welcome" mat still being there—only "Welcome" is changed to "Well?" . . . Pedro Martin's Satevepiece about Ingrid Bergman reads as silky as she looks . . . And John Mason Brown's New Yorky essay in Red Book is a cinch to win digest encores.

Astute and amusing scrivening . . . Time and Life staffers have scorned us common folks for writing about couples having babies. Life's last number devoted several pages to intimate details about Princess Liz's soon-due blessed-event. The old gossips! . . . Movieville shelled out mucho mazoom for the Broadway click, "One Touch of Venus," and then ignored most of the original's lilts, dropped the hoofing and clipped the witty bristlers.

Miami Beach is fine. Like a country town. None of the congestion caused by those Northerners. But that won't last much longer . . . The famed 5 o'Clock spot (on the site of the former Blackamoor) is alive with nimble talent in Mickey O'Shaughnessy and Marie (Butch) Austin. He's a funny fellow whose billing is "Nothing to Laugh At." Miss Austin sings songs the way the Palace headliners did to stop shows.

At the newly appointed Club 22 Luis Del Campo (once with Cugat) has an engaging way with his Latin lilts; the show gals are attractive; Nino, the Great Yacovino, is the affable Ham-C; and Harry Candullo's crew is expert. But a dancer named Rosanne, blessed with a Venus figure, belongs in Minnie Astor's Maisonette Room at the St. Regis, The Blue Angel, Le Directoire or at Mocambo, Ciro's or Le Pappilon in Hollywood or in Mr. Kirkeby's Blackstone in Chi. She is big-time, and I hope I do not have to warn them all again.

V. H. Lodde, was re-appointed secretary-manager of the association for the 24th consecutive year.

The new officers replace W. L. Faulkner, Fernyak and the late L. A. Ott as president, vice president and treasurer, respectively.

Attendance Contest On

Sunday School Calls Absentees

Members of the Sunday school of the First United Presbyterian church have entered a national attendance contest, Leonard Ebbert, superintendent, has announced. The contest, which began with last Sunday's attendance, will contine through Sunday, Dec. 5.

Last Sunday's roll call in the various classes was 151 as compared to 78 on the corresponding Sunday last year. The ultimate goal of the Sunday school is at least 200 members.

Ebbert attributes the increase to the combined efforts of all Sunday school members, working to bring in absentees as well as new members. All absentees are called by telephone and cards are sent to them each week, urging their attendance.

Another feature in connection with the contest, Ebbert said, is the "Bring Another Club." All members who bring new members are to be guests at a dinner when the Sunday school welcomes the new members into the enrollment. Last week, Ebbert said, graphs were sent out to the members, with letters telling them of the work of the Sunday school and church.

Jaycees to Name City's 'Honor Citizen'

Mansfield's first "Honor Citizen" of the month will be announced at the Jaycee's November edition of "The Best Is Yet to Come" which will be presented Nov. 23 in the Senior high school auditorium.

The Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the show, will present a diamond and emerald pin to the "Honor Citizen."

The person who receives the award will be chosen by an "Honor Citizen" committee made up of representatives of the various civic organizations in Mansfield. Jerry Dent, chairman of the committee, will be the only Junior Chamber of Commerce member serving on the committee.

The "Honor Citizen" will be chosen on the basis of outstanding service to the community or his neighborhood. Both men and women are eligible for the award. Dent said the committee will attempt to find a person who exemplifies the golden rule in his daily living without any expectation of recognition or reward.

Committee members have been asked to bring nominations to a meeting which will be held at the Boy Scout office at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday to select the "Honor Citizen."

The committee will meet monthly and an "Honor Citizen" will be chosen each month. Each award will be presented at the monthly Junior Chamber of Commerce shows.

Would Raise Cost of Gas

CLEVELAND — (UP) — The county engineers association of Ohio have started a drive for a two-cent gasoline tax boost and a 50 per cent increase in automobile license fees.

Cuyahoga County Engineer Albert S. Porter, president of the association, said the money would be used for building and maintenance of Ohio's road and bridge system.

He said the association will sponsor legislation for their increases when the 1949 Ohio assembly convenes in January. The opposition to the program was expected to come from the large oil companies and automobile manufacturers.

"The roads and bridges in Ohio, both in the county and state systems, are literally going to pieces," Porter stated. "Cost of the road and bridge maintenance has increased 200 to 300 per cent in the past four years, but there has been no increase in revenue from tax sources since 1930."

Persons who love to bite into a juicy onion but fear the after-effects of "OO" (onion odor) might well take a tip from employes of the Richland County Farm Bureau. Onion lovers are in the majority at the Mansfield office, so a highly satisfactory solution has been put into effect. The workers get together, decide on a suitable date, then everyone eats onions. So far no method has been devised for taking care of unexpected visitors, but one young lady suggests placing an additional stock at the front entrance.

Tavern Leveled By Flames

Fireman Suffers Minor Burns

ASHLAND — County officials here are investigating a $40,000 blaze yesterday that left the Sky-Hi club on Wooster road in smoking ruins. An Ashland fireman suffered minor burns in the blaze.

The fire halted a pending probe of alleged resumption of gambling activities at the club.

The fire was out of control by the time Ashland firemen reached the scene. Difficulties in phoning in the alarm were blamed for the delay. The blaze was discovered by a passing truck driver.

Fireman Bill Cole suffered burns after being pinned beneath a buckling wall of the barn-like structure. He was rescued by fellow firemen before the blaze enveloped him.

Origin of the fire is undetermined but Fire Chief Paul Soles said it may have started in a juke box.

The club was subject of a grand jury investigation last July when the jury returned two indictments against Bartley Bowers, operator of the club, for permitting gambling.

OPERATOR FINED

Bowers was fined $750 after pleading guilty to two charges. Another charge still is pending.

The club later reopened as a restaurant and is well known to Mansfield residents.

Recent reports of renewed gambling activities were to have brought an official investigation within the next few days. Patrons were said to have come from surrounding counties and the Cleveland area.

She got out of a parked car on the west side of North Adams street, walked around behind the car, and attempted to cross from the west to the east side of the street, police said.

The truck was driven by Fred Gates of Dearborn, Mich.

The injured woman was taken to General hospital where her condition was reported as "good" today.

Mail Overseas Gifts Now, Acting Postmaster Warns

Christmas parcels for members of the armed forces overseas should be mailed not later than Monday if delivery by Christmas is desired, Acting Postmaster Curtis L. Ford said today.

Ford said there have been indications that many people plan to mail such gifts at a later date via air parcel post with the idea of getting prompt delivery.

He said the Departments of the Army and Navy have advised that present air lift capacities to various overseas areas are being taxed to the utmost and it will be impossible to increase such facilities at this time.

Therefore, any appreciable increase in mailing of air parcel post to servicemen overseas will mean that such gifts will have to be transported via surface means and delivered at a much later date than intended by the sender.

The Post Office department has instructed all postmasters to inform their patrons that no assurance can be given that overseas air transportation can be provided by the armed services, and that if surface transportation must be used delivery will be delayed accordingly.

During the period of Nov. 15 to Dec. 31 air parcel post will be accepted only with the understanding that such parcels will be transported overseas by surface means unless air facilities are available at the time.

U. S. Drops Search For Spy Queen

Noted Red Spy Eludes Officers

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The whereabouts of Elizabeth T. Bentley, self-styles communist spy queen, became a mystery today when federal marshals abandoned a five-week search for her.

Attorney for William Remington told newsmen in Washington that the government has admitted it cannot locate the woman who rocked the capital last summer with her testimony to congressional committees on the operations of a wartime communist espionage ring.

Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., attorney for Remington, who is suing Miss Bentley for libel in connection with her accusations against him, said that William V. Connell, clerk of the U. S. district court in New York, signed an order today turning over the search to private detectives.

The order was requested by remington a suspended commerce department employe.

Remington has filed a $100,000 damage suit against Miss Bentley for her charges that he was a communist. He denied the accusation.

However, U. S. Marshals have been unable to locate the former courier for the "red" spy ring to serve her with the legal action.

Also named as defendants in Remington's suit were the national Broadcasting company, and General Foods corporation NBC, which carried a television show Sept. 12 in which Miss Bentley made her charges, and General Foods, which sponsored the program, have been served with papers in the suit.

The suit was filed Oct. 6. After a futile search by federal marshals for Miss Bentley, Richard Green, New York attorney for Remington, petitioned the court for the right to take over the search.

Today, Rauh said, the court clerk signed such an order. Rauh said Green told the court: "It is obvious that only a thorough private investigation will locate defendant Bentley, and in such case, if she is found, deponent wants to be in a position to serve the papers immediately without the loss of time attendant upon getting the U. S. marshall."

Ohio Professor Joins In Argument

Carrots Offer Puzzler In ICC Debate

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The man in the gray suit and silver hair could have passed for a broker or a bank executive

He was neither He was in the crowded hearing room in the Commerce building to front for the man in overalls out there on the sideroads—the farmer.

The distinguished one told Interstate Commerce Commission Examiner C. Evans Brooks that he was Charles W. Hauck, professor of marketing in Ohio State university's department of rural economics. He dipped a manicured hand into a bushel basket at his side and held it up.

"What is this, gentlemen?"

Somebody said it was a carrot.

The professor reached into a basket at his other side and again held it up, asking the same question. It also looked like a carrot And was. One of the carrots, he explained, had been scrubbed and ready for market and the other was raw —just like it was when it was pulled out of the good earth.

Dr. Hauck then held a carrot in each hand and wanted to know which was which. You could hardly tell the difference, except that one still had the green hedge on top.

In a word, the specialist had brought the whole argument before the ICC hearing into sharp relief. The question before the commission was: is a carrot, or any other vegetable, a vegetable or a manufactured product if it has been brushed, packaged or otherwise prettied before shipment?

The ICC is at odds with the department of agriculture in the matter The controversy started last December when Norman E. Harwood of Detroit asked the ICC for a permit that would let him operate as a contract trucker of fresh and frozen fruits and vegetables in interstate commerce Among the stuff was spinach, packed in cellophane The ICC said, no. Mr H. would have to have the kind of contract required for manufactured goods.

Professor Hauck explained that the carrots, lettuce, cabbage, kale, and spinach he had in his baskets had been harvested several days ago One had been cleaned and packaged. The other hadn't The first was fresh, the second wilted.

Hauck argued that a man shouldn't be penalized for trying to preserve for the housewife the things she buys for the table.

Presents Pour In For Lad Facing His Last Christmas

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Hundreds of "get well" letters have poured into the home of seven-year-old Arthur Smith, who is getting ready to celebrate what doctors believe will be his last Christmas.

Arthur is a victim of muscular atrophy. Recent newspaper stories and radio broadcasts have aroused the sympathy of persons who have heard about the trust fund that Arthur's neighbors have set up

"People are so good," said Mrs Harry Smith, the boy's mother "They are willing to do anything to help Arthur get well"

The Smiths live at nearby Mentor-on-the-Lake and a citizens' committee in the village has raised more than $500

The musicians' union has asked President James C. Petrillo to underwrite their appearance from the "free concert" fund of the AFL American Federation of Musicians, and many other groups have offered to help by staging parties and benefits

A trust fund has been set up at the Painesville office of the Cleveland Trust company and funds will be used for other persons in the Mentor area who need help

Fellow workers of Arthur's father a Fisher Body diemaker, also have collected more than $300 for the fund.

Bellville Loses First of Year to Loudonville Red Birds, 12-7

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Undefeated Bucyrus Rallies to Trip Rams

Time Runs Out On Blue Jay Eleven

BELLVILLE — Time ran out on the Bellville football team last night.

After rolling over seven straight opponents, the Blue Jays were stymied by Loudonville for three quarters and then had the final gun go off just when they appeared ready to overcome a 12-7 score, before 2,500 fans.

Bellville drove 61 yards to a first down on the Loudonville four-yard line as the game ended. The defeat threw the Mohican league championship into a three-way tie between Bellville, Loudonville and Millersburg.

Bellville had beaten Millersburg earlier in the season and Millersburg defeated Londonville last week.

SCORE IN FIRST

All scoring was in the first half on both sides. Four times in the second half, the fighting Loudonville team held the Blue Jays for downs inside the Loudonville 20.

Statistics reveal just how close the game was. Both teams racked up ten first downs, while in total yards, Bellville led by the scant margin of 253 to 225 yards.

Loudonville scored first on a 45-yard pass from Bob Foster to Gerald Cowen but failed to convert. Bellville bounced back, still in the opening quarter, for a sustained march and a 7-6 lead. Left-halfback Jim Gleason bucked over from the three-yard line for his 117th point of the season and Will Walker converted.

TAKES THE LEAD

In the second period, however, the well-drilled men of Coach Elmer Boyer got their quick-opening plays functioning and took the lead. Fullback Bill Porter, the Red Birds' outstanding player, carried over from the two, and again the conversion attempt was no good.

The second half was a fine display of defensive football as both teams stopped scoring threats when necessary. The nearest either team came to scoring was Bellville's drive which was stopped by the final gun.

Morningstar Gives Credit To Fans For Inspiration

By BILL HERRING

Coach Augie Morningstar credited the greatest display of enthusiasm in Mansfield high school's athletic history as being the inspiration for last night's gridiron triumph over Hamilton's Big Blue.

"The players were happy to see the thousands of fans and student body behind them," he said. "The squad was inspired by the crowd at halftime and a new ball club took the field after hearing the stands reverberate with Tyger cheers."

"Our downfield blocking was far superior to that in any other game this year and the line played a great game—our pass protection was good," the happy mentor remarked.

★

Though there were thousands of 'players' on the field last night, the News-Journal phones kept up an incessant ringing. More calls were handled than on election night—the estimate being in excess of 2,200 queries.

It took longer than usual to handle most of the calls for the anxious fans, who could not attend the tilt, doubted the score and reputition was needed.

★

Hamilton's Big Blue gridders were complacent before game-time and their supporters said they had been quietly confident throughout the winning season.

★

"Mansfield was fired up in the first quarter," was the way Paul Walker, Middletown high school basketball coach and chief athletic scout, summed up the Tyger victory. Walker has coached several state champions and has scouted Hamilton four times. Middletown meets the Big Blue next week.

★

The game brought joy and expense to the Morningstar home. Coach Augie was gratified that everyone was behind the Tygers and it was not a 11-man affair. Mrs. Morningstar, who has been out of the hospital but a week, made game attendance last night her first outdoor effort and left with her red gloves torn to shreds as she clapped and thumped the Tygers on to victory.

★

Former Tyger lettermen formed a "pep gateway" from the dressing room to the center of the playing field before the game and at half-time. Just another expression of town interest which helped the Tygers to play their best game.

The fans never quit cheering.

★

Capt. Joe Miller remarked in the hilarious Bengal dressing room, "It just goes to show that 11 guys don't have to play the game themselves. We had thousands of players out there."

And Joe Letizia, the Tyger punter popped up, "It was swell. The crowd even cheered us on after I made a fumble."

"We had to win," chorused the rest of the players.

★

Hamilton left for Cleveland, where the Big Blue squad of 32 youths will see the Barons play hockey there tonight and the Browns play a pro football game tomorrow afternoon. The visitors were accompanied here by 800 rooters.

Jimmy Chamberlain, defensive Tyger center who suffered a fractured arm in an auto mishap after the first game, was in uniform last night. It was his second appearance of the year in Tyger garb and was not announced, so most fans were unaware of Jimmy's return.

★

The colorful Homecoming queen festivities at halftime made one Hamilton sports writer state that Mansfield has a state-wide reputation for the shows put on between halves at its grid frays.

★

On four occasions eight student managers dashed on to the field to clean mud off the cleats of shoes so the Tygers could secure firmer grips in the soggy field. It proved helpful against the heavier Hamilton squad and amused the fans.

★

Hamilton had been one touchdown behind in three of its previous eight victories but the Big Blue had never been three TD's to the rear. The first quarter marked only the third of 36 heats in which the Big Blue had not scored.

★

Each half ended on an exciting note. As the first half closed the gun halted Hamilton on Mansfield's three yard line. The final gun found the Tygers in possession of the pigskin on the Hamilton three.

★

The tuned-up Tygers found company in one motorist. After driving downtown after the game his riders remarked that his radiator must be boiling over as a rythmic sound was heard upon leaving the parked car. It proved to be the motor purring—it had been tuned up so perfectly earlier in the day the driver wasn't aware he had failed to cut the ignition.

Shelby Whippet Gridders Upset Crestline, 14 to 12

By JOHN PATRICK

SHELBY—The Shelby Whippets defeated the Crestline Bulldogs, 14 to 12, in a thrill-packed game here last night to gain a fourth-place tie in the final NOL standings.

Once again the educated toe of Junior Scheerer provided the winning margin.

Highlighted by a 71-yard jaunt by Jerry Dennis, the Whippets outfought and outgained the Bulldogs.

Harold Phillips drove to the 30 on the kickoff. Dennis on a trap play cut through left tackle for 35 yards. Fackler and Moore smashed through for four yards each and Jim Berry made it first down on the Crestline 25. Here the attack bogged down and the Bulldogs took over on their own 20.

Nap Norton cracked through for six yards in three tries and George Sherboondy booted from his own ten-yard stripe into Shelby's end zone.

Shelby took the ball on its own 20. Berry made one yard around left end. A five-yard penalty on the next play made it second down and four. Berry was smothered for a five-yard loss. Dick Utz then sent up a bobbling kick taken by Morton on Shelby's 32.

Morton cut through left tackle for nine yards and Glen Miller made it a first down on the Whippet 21. Sherbondy smashed through the right side of the line for seven yards. On a tricky reverse Morton slashed to the Shelby ten. The same play was bottled up by the Whippets for a loss of four yards. Sherbondy dropped back and tossed a pass into the hands of Edwin Stump for the first score.

Christine again kicked off for the Bulldogs and Berry carried back to the Shelby 26. He then bulled his way for three yards to the 29. Jerry Dennis then slashed through the right tackle and cut down the sidelines for 71 yards and a touchdown. Scheerer's attempt was good and Shelby went ahead 7 to 6.

Scherer's high kick-off was fumbled by Morton and recovered by Scheerer on the Crestline 27. Shelby was penalized for pushing on the next play Berry's attempted pass to Utz was intercepted by Morton who raced to the Shelby 40. Miller made four yards and Morton broke loose for 15. On a delayed play Miller smashed down to the Whippet six.

Miller cracked tackle for two yards. An offside penalty put the ball back on the Shelby 9. Sherbondy's pass to Stump was incomplete. Then on a triple reverse Stump dashed around the left end to score.

The second half was all Shelby. Scheerer kicked off to Miller on the 10-yard stripe. A reverse went to the 12. The Bulldogs punted out on Crestline's 36. The Whippets then drove down to the Crestline two-yard stripe. However, the Bulldogs' defense stiffened and Shelby lost the ball.

Christine kicked out to the Crestline 34. Berry and Moore alternated to give Shelby a first down of the Bulldogs' 23 where Dennis faded back and tossed to Utz in the end zone for the winning touchdown.

Browns Battle Unbeaten Foe In Top Contest

NEW YORK —(INS)— Cleveland and San Francisco, the two giants of the All-America football conference, will come to grips in tomorrow's feature pro game.

A capacity crowd will jam Cleveland's municipal stadium to see the challenge of the powerful 49'ers against the perennial champion Browns. And likely will see a clash that will be a better game than the east-west playoff later.

Cleveland is a seven-point favorite.

Buffalo, eastern AAC leader, is a big point choice over the Los Angeles Dons.

New York's Yankees are rated over their metropolitan rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers. Baltimore is a big favorite over the Chicago Rockets.

In the rival National football league, Washington is a slight favorite over Detroit. The clash between the Los Angeles Rams and the New York Giants is a tough one, with the possibility that the Giants finally may start clicking behind Charley Conerly, their new passing star.

In the three other games carded in the senior circuit, there are solid favorites. Chicago's Bears are rated better than Green Bay, and the Chicago Cardinals over Pittsburgh.

The Philadelphia Eagles, eastern division leaders, figure three touchdowns better than Boston.

Detroit Tigers Release Coaches

DETROIT —(AP)— The Detroit Tigers have swept the welcome mat clean for a new manager by announcing release of the entire coaching staff that worked under Steve O'Neill with the fifth place team of 1948.

General Manager Billy Evans said he had written both Art Mills and Roger (Doc) Cramer advising them of their release. Bill Sweeney, third 1948 Detroit coach under O'Neill, signed on as manager of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league last month.

Gridder Killed

KINGSPORT, Tenn. —(UP)— A high school substitute guard, Regan Keller, was killed last night on the first play in which he participated in a football game between his Kingsport school and Johnson City, Tenn.

Tygers Claw Down 'Champs,' 27-20

"gripping" all year because the Big Blue was rated second instead of first. The Big Blue backers wanted someone like Canton McKinley to play a post-season game for the state title.

However, Mansfield really pricked that bubble. The twice-beaten Tygers were rated only 16th in the state but they definitely proved that northern Ohio football has an edge on the variety played in the southern section of the state. Possibly no team in either section could have shaded the Bengals the way they played last night.

Just four minutes and 30 seconds after Howie Tipper kicked off to open the game, Mansfield dented paydirt. Dale Stitzel punted to Little Tommy Tucker on the 19 and the Tyger junior speed merchant returned to the 31. Jenkins and Capt. Joe Miller alternated to tote the pigskin to the 38. A Ferguson pass was incomplete.

On second down, Jenkins used his favorite trap play to go all 62 yards behind fine downfield blocking. Howie Tipper calmly converted.

PLENTY OF LOSS

Wally Duemer returned Tipper kickoff to the 41. But three running plays cost Hamilton 10 yards. On fourth down Stitzel fumbled a pass from center and he was hauled down on the 17. Miller and Jenkins powered to the four.

Then the Tygers dug deep into their bag of tricks and came up with a bit of legerdemain never before used this year. It was a double reverse with the speedy Tucker on the receiving end for TD No. 2. Again Tipper split the uprights.

Mansfield marched 81 yards for its third counter. A statue of liberty" play with Jenkins running picked up 16 yards, the longest gain of the steady drive. Miller bucked over from the one on the 13th play of the series. Tipper's kick was slightly wide.

In less than three minutes, Hamilton was making giant strides to get back into the ball game. Bailey capped a 93-yard surge to go over from the one. Hamilton used just eight plays, Bob Sumser booted the seventh point.

The gun stopped Hamilton on the four-yard line at the half.

BACK IN CONTEST

Bailey, running like a run-away boxcar, put Hamilton in the game mid-way in the third quarter. He returned a 42-yard Joe Letizia boot 39 yards to the Mansfield 42. Then he dashed around end to the 12. Four plays later, Gordon scored from the seven on a reverse. Sumser's successful kick cut the Tyger lead to six points.

But once again, the Tygers exhibited championship form. Miller blasted straight up the center on the following kickoff and was hauled down from behind on the Hamilton 22 after a 71-yard jaunt. A fumble stopped the drive on the 17 but Stitzel was forced to punt and the ball rolled dead on the Big Blue 48.

Again it was smashing line bucks by Miller and Jenkins which pulverized the much bigger Hamilton players. They alternated to tote the ball to the 13. Ferguson pitched to Ken Carver on the five and Harry Osbun drove to the four. Jenkins took a pitch-out wide for the score. Tipper's kick was good for the 27th point.

Ferguson ended a Hamilton drive on the 21 by recovering a fumble. However, Letizia was forced to punt. Gordon gathered in the boot on his own 35 and dashed down the sidelines for the final TD. He left a path of would-be Mansfield tacklers strewn by the wayside. Sumser's kick was wide.

Mansfield marched 88 yards to the Hamilton three as the game ended.

Madison 11 Blows Lead, Loses 20-13

By CHARLEY STINE

BUCYRUS—After rising to its best football of the season and a first half lead, Madison stalled in the final periods here last night to bow, 20-13, to a game band of Bucyrus gridders.

In making its fourth quarter comeback, Bucyrus completed its first undefeated season in history. The Redmen won seven games and tied one. Madison won three, lost five, and tied one.

Madison was great—and then it wasn't.

The underdog Rams completely dominated play in the first half of the game to take a 13-0 lead, but failed to keep up the rest of the way. Even a third quarter shower, usually a boon to Madison, made things worse.

Statistics were fairly even with Bucyrus having six first downs to Madison's five but punts and punt attemps played a major part in the game. Only one touchdown did not come as a result of faulty action in the kicking department.

SECRIST SCORES

Late in the first quarter, Madison stopped Bucyrus on the Ram 47 and Walter Light went back to kick. Fred Durig cracked through the line, blocked the punt and then fell on it on the Bucyrus 31. Larry Secrist, a star in defeat, skirted left end to the 15. Durig plunged for two, then Ed Chelski passed to Secrist to rack up the first score. Secrist went over untouched after taking the ball on the five-yard stripe.

The Rams kept up their fight after Bucyrus had made two first downs, again held on the Madison 37. This time Light got a bad pass from center in his punt attempt and Tom Morris, Bill Remy, and Jim Brightbill hit him simultaneously as he picked up the ball.

That gave the Rams the ball on Bucyrus's 48 and once more they were off to the races. Short plunges by Secrist and Durig and a 15-yard penalty against the Redmen soon put the ball across. Secrist climaxed the drive by going off left tackle from the six. Don Hartman, who had booted wide the first try, converted.

BEGIN TO SMARTEN

The Bucyrus offense which hammered away futilely at the Rams "Iron Wall" in the first half finally got smart and began to throw passes and skirt ends.

On Bucyrus' second play from scrimmage in the third quarter, Jim Ball hit Dick Johns on a pass from the Madison 45. Johns took the ball on the 17 and outsprinted the defense for the score.

Madison then got the biggest break of the game but failed to capitalize on it. Chelski punted from his own 31 to the Bucyrus 21, where Jim Brightbill recovered the ball after the Bucyrus safety man had touched it.

PENALTY HURTS

A major penalty set the Rams back to the 36. From where they could not gain. Then to top everything, a bad pass from center sailed over Chelski's head and instead of getting a punt off, he recovered on his own 46.

Bucyrus took over on downs and drove to touchdown No. 2. Bill Kibler, who has a bad ankle, swung into action for the first time in the game and bore the brunt of the load in advancing the ball to the two. Fullback Bob Dutcher took it over. Dutcher took it over the second time from the same spot for the tying extra point.

The Madison attack stalled after receiving the kickoff. Chelski got off a good kick from his own 26. One little thing was wrong, however. The ball sailed into the waiting arms of Bill Kibler on his own 40 and he escorted it on a 60-yard runback for the winning touchdown.

SLIPS ON GRASS

Fine blocking broke Kibler loose around the right of the Madison line and sidestepped Chelski cleanly on the 30-yard stripe. The Ram quarterback had a good shot at him but slipped on the wet grass.

Coach Ennis Walker jerked his first team after it let Bucyrus fall on the kickoff to take over on the Madison 32. Not a Madison player laid a hand on the free ball.

The second-stringers, many of whom were seeing their first varsity action, stopped the host team's drive but could not get an offensive of its own roling.

Ashland Rally Defeats Galion Team, 20 to 19

GALION—Coming from behind in the fourth quarter, Ashland high school closed its season with its second football victory, 20-19, over Galion here last night. For the host Tigers it was their eighth straight defeat.

The lead changed hands three times. Galion scored first on a plunge by Captain Jim Schwartz but Ashland came bouncing back to take a 7-6 advantage on a 15-yard touchdown pass.

Fullback Dick Marshall put Galion back in front with two second quarter touchdowns. The first was on a one-yard plunge and the second on the best play of the game—a 92-yard jaunt.

Two short line bucks, one by Lersch in the third quarter and another by Fackler near the end of the game, tied the score and Fackler pushed over with the extra point to notch the victory.

Scripture—Amos 5:21-6:6; 7:10-17; Micah 4:1-5; 5:2-4; 6:6-8.

"Though ye offer Me your burnt-offerings and meal-offerings, I will not accept them," saith the Lord. "But let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream."

Amaziah, priest of Bethel, sent a message to King Jeroboam, saying that Amos was conspiring against him, and prophesying that Jeroboam would die by the sword and his people taken captive.

Amaziah the priest and Amos met, and Amos denied he was conspiring against the king; that he was a herdsman whom the Lord has chosen to prophesy to His people, Israel.

Prophet Micah foretold that "in the last days" the Lord's house would be built on a mountain and all people of the earth would come to it.

With a new corps of officers, the Churchmen's Brotherhood of the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church is ready for its winter season of activities.

This week Frank Wolverton became its new president, Michael A. Mihalick, vice president; Robert Chew, recording secretary; Andrew Knapp sr., treasurer, and John E. Fisher, financial secretary. Wolverton succeeds Esley Cleckner as president.

While plans go forward for the installation of the newly elected officers Monday night, Dec. 13, members continue to carry out their five-fold program of service, both to their church and the community.

This program was explained by Wolverton

"First our aim is to get together for inspirational and informative meetings. Then, too, our organization provides an outlet for social and recreational activities for the men of the church

"We support both the national program of the Churchmen's Brotherhood with its headquarters in St. Louis and the larger church program here, particularly those affairs of our church in which the men can take part, such as the every-member canvass or Kingdom Roll as it is called in our church. Men of the church help to make a canvass of the entire city once each year.

GIVE PASTOR AID

"And finally, we help our pastor, Rev. John C. Melchert, wherever and whenever he needs our help."

There now is an enrollment of 100 and an average attendance at the monthly meetings of between 40 and 50 men. At each of the dinner meetings, the men cook and serve the suppers.

"And they're good suppers, too," Wolverton says.

Regular yearly events to which members look forward, include a late summer visit to the Richland County Children's Home, two family picnics during the summer months and other special social events that are sandwiched in as the members like.

"One of our projects last year was the remodeling of the old parsonage on South Franklin avenue just back of the church," Wolverton recalled. "Men of the Brotherhood did all the work, then turned it over to the Girl Scouts for their Town House."

When new officers are installed on Dec. 13, Rev. Melchert will be the installing officer.

We live in a world which prefers science to Scripture, reason to revelation, theories for truth, culture for conversion, profession for possession, pep for prayer, reformation for regeneration, feelings for faith, and speculation for salvation. If God should forsake this world, we could hardly blame Him.
